12-year old Laura beat everyone at Scrabble, at Emily's House children's hospice.

Seated in a wheelchair, non-verbal, and relying on others for mobility assistance, she was a powerhouse at Scrabble. She used her eyes and smiles to communicate, and could play all day. If someone tried to wrap up a game, she'd respond: "We're not done. We're still playing!"

At Emily's House – children and youth like Laura, living with a life-limiting illness or palliative diagnosis – don't have to stop playing. In our home-like environment, they have access to 24/7 clinical nursing care, and quality-of-life through well-supported recreation, therapeutic activities, and frequent celebrations.
