If You Only Knew... The Voices of Families of Children with Complex Care Needs

BEING KNOWN: Families in this research study spoke about the importance of others getting to know their child with complex care needs. They wanted others to understand, accept, listen to and embrace their child.

<https://youtu.be/ghsKm1Zm6ro> - 5 minutes

KNOWING YOUR CHILD: For some families in our research study, their child had difficulty communicating with others. Even when a child could not verbally communicate, parents were able to understand what their child wanted or needed. But at the same time, there are difficulties and frustrations for both the child and family members at not being able to share and easily communicate with the people in their lives.

<https://youtu.be/IHx61pie2JE> - 7 minutes

KNOWING THE WORK PARENTS DO: The research project demonstrated that the intense nature of caring for a child with complex care needs can affect the health (mental, physical, emotional, social and psychological) and well-being of the entire family, including the extended family. Parents often bear the burden of this work.

<https://youtu.be/vLCgXQqBu3I> - 8 minutes

IF ONLY WE KNEW: There are many systems that parents of children with complex care needs have to navigate. Parents in our research study described the difficulty navigating “the system.” They spoke about not knowing the right questions to ask that could help them access the supports and services that their child needed.

If You Only Knew... The Voices of Families of Children with Complex Care Needs

IF ONLY PEOPLE KNEW: Stigma, discrimination and exclusion are parts of daily life for some children with complex care needs and/or disabilities and their families. Families in our study felt that society in general watched and judged them more harshly compared to other families.

<https://youtu.be/8ZYoot83jbQ> - 9 minutes

MEANINGFUL PARTICIPATION: Families in our study shared that participation gave them a sense of being a part of something. For participation to be meaningful, it required the attributes of choice, acceptance, safety, accessibility, and accommodation. For parents in our study, these attributes were essential in allowing their child to participate.

<https://youtu.be/5D-Wz1601VQ> - 8 minutes

INCLUSIVE LANDSCAPES: Families in our project shared that even when places are deemed “accessible,” there is usually something missing that makes accessibility a challenge. As a result, participation for families of children with complex care needs was experienced as something less.

https://youtu.be/E\_nLgb4iqvE - 7 minutes

HAVING A LIFE: Families in our study spoke about the importance of having a life. For them, this meant a feeling of belonging, of acceptance and being able to contribute to society. By engaging in meaningful participation, an enhanced sense of well-being for the whole family was possible.
